

Over forty years ago in a little cabin in the Colorado mountains, not far from the spot where this picture was taken on the Morgan ranch, Ron and Mickey Morgan founded Westone Laboratories. They were helped by their five sons and, from the beginning, it was evident that Westone was to be a family affair. It's true, a lot has changed over the past four decades. But the tradition of family values, quality and service established in that little cabin is still evident today in every earmold and supply that we provide. Every member of the ever-growing Westone family makes serving you, our customer, his or her first priority. The cabin may be gone, but the Westone tradition continues to flourish.
